en

Publication | 07.05.2007

Nuclear power

"The Economics of Nuclear Power", new report commissioned by Greenpeace

This new report by Greenpeace International conclusively proves that nuclear power is neither a practical nor economically viable solution to tacklling climate change.

The need for government support, i.e. public funds, weakens also the economic argument for nuclear, like for the new plant under construction in Finland.

Furthermore the significant and widespread concerns over the basic safety, waste disposal and decommisssioning of existing plants remain.

For the full report:
"The economics of nuclear power"

Recommended

Publication

[Call for tenders: Greens/EFA Consultation widget]

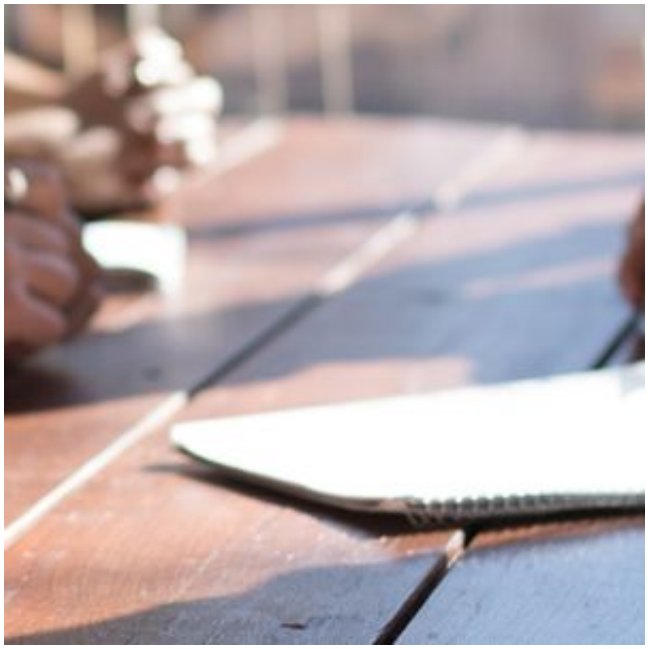
18.10.2026

Publication

Call for tenders: The Greens/EFA CRM Software

08.10.2026

Publication



Human Resources Management System

02.10.2025

Publication

Heads of national delegations in the GREENS/EFA Group

11.03.2025

Please share

- E-Mail