Migration Pact – A better future for migration and asylum in the EU?

Online Event 28 October, 15.00-17.00 CET

Since 2015, it became even more apparent that the European Union needs to reform its asylum system to ensure a fair and efficient common system putting the needs and rights of persons on the move central, where all Member States take responsibility and contribute to EU-wide solidarity.

On 23 September, the European Commission proposed a new Migration and Asylum Pact, which is meant to create a new balance between responsibility and solidarity and streamline the asylum process. There are many questions to be clarified and discussed to understand the European Commission's proposal and its implication.

As the legislations proposed obligatory pre-entry screening and border procedures with an aim to streamline procedures, the first panel will discuss with speakers from the institutions, as well as the NGO community the obstacles and possibilities of such a procedure at the external border.

The Pact proposal also introduces a flexible solidarity system adapted to specific scenarios: disembarkation following search and rescue, risk of migratory pressure, and situations of crisis. Depending on the situation, a Member State can choose to show solidarity through relocation, return sponsorship or other operational help. The panellists will discuss the nature and consequences of such flexible solidarity and what it entails.

The Conference aims to address opportunities and concerns, as well as possible compromised alternatives. To read the Greens/EFA proposals for a fair asylum system, click here.
